

Your Financial Behavior Report

Nikki Evans: Initiator

Provided by your advisor: Chris Coddington

Initiators like to take bold, aggressive actions and create the rules.

Your Financial Behavior

Your results show that you take a balanced approach to money. This means you're fine with taking some calculated risks to make some gains, but prefer not to put all your eggs in one basket.

Your Behavioral Biases

These biases may get in the way of wise decision making. Your advisor will discuss strategies to help you manage your instincts in your financial plan.

Newness Bias - Likely to give more weight to recent information and ideas.

Instinctive - In adversity tends to make decisions quickly and emotionally based on instinct.

Your keys to adopting a plan

- Allow me plenty of freedom
- Use graphics and verbal communications
- Expect/encourage my out-of-the-box thinking

The Importance of Understanding Your Financial Behavior

For advisors to provide valuable advice, it is key that they understand you and your goals. Measuring and discussing your financial behavior is a first step for your advisor to get to know you. Your financial behavior describes how you make decisions around money, your communication style, how you react to market events, and what motivates you to achieve your goals. These elements help drive a financial plan that is appropriate and custom for you.

Other factors may influence the investment strategy that is ideal for you such as;

- Amount of time you planned to achieve your goals
- Risk and return required to achieve your financial goals.
- Experiences such as education, upbringing, and life lessons that may have changed your approach to finances throughout your lifetime.
